

The HIV Free Generation Street Art Project aims were to increase knowledge of prevention, testing and management of HIV, sexually transmissible infections and hepatitis C among Aboriginal young people (15–25 years old).

The project was delivered in four locations from December 2014–June 2015, involving schools, youth services and other local services.

Mural from Narooma High School

Mural from Tharawal Aboriginal Corporation

Mural from Kempsey

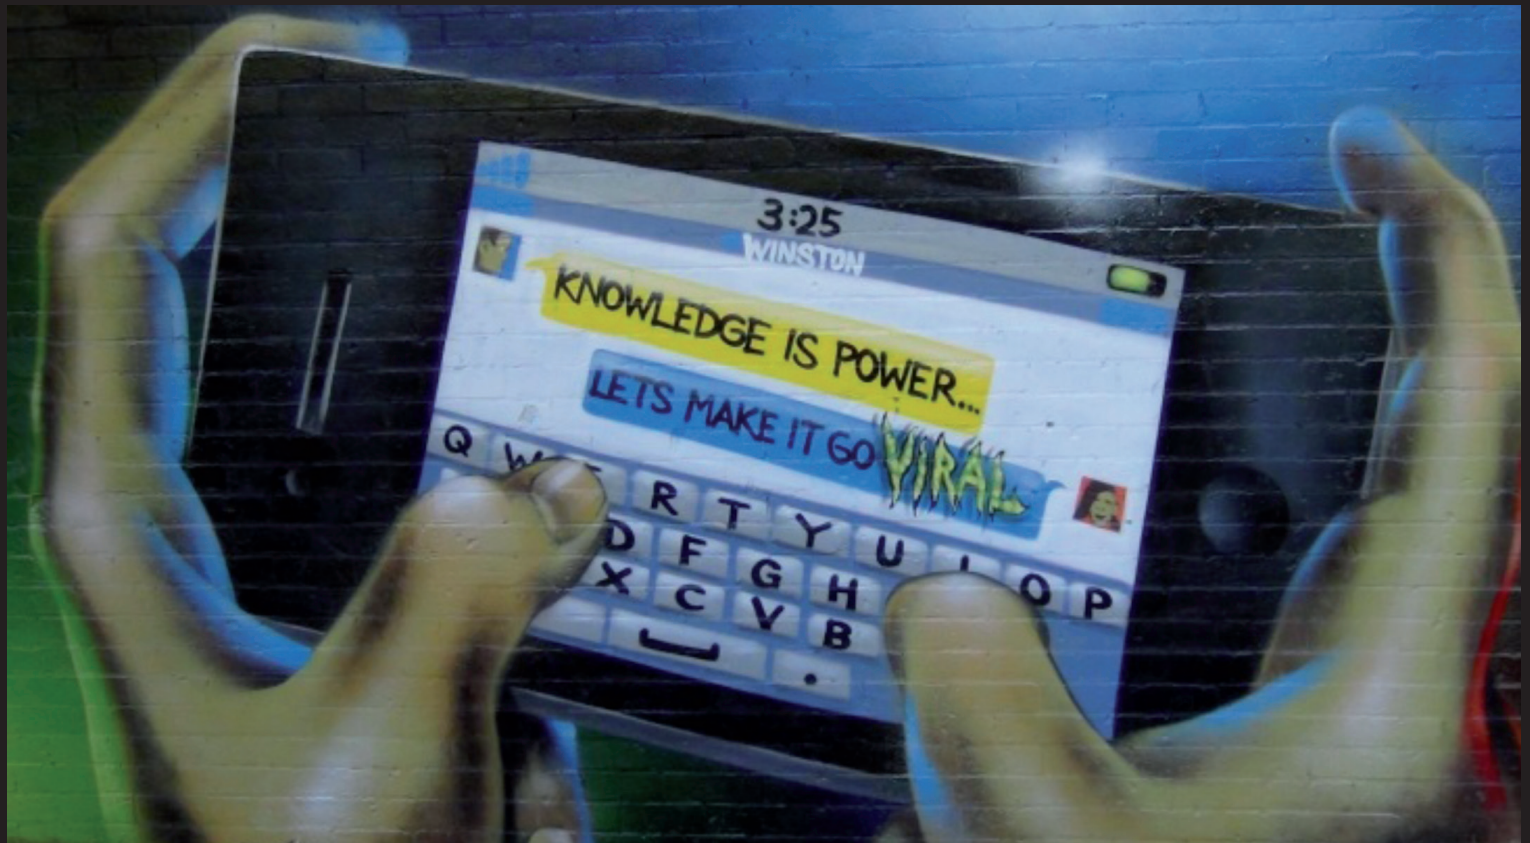

Mural from Aboriginal Medical Service Western Sydney – Blacktown Youth College.

Mural from Kempsey

Mural from Narooma High School